Baggage Handling and Claims Policy

Fictional demonstration airline - AeroResolve prototype

1. Purpose and Scope

This document describes the baggage handling and claim rules of the fictional demonstration airline used by the AeroResolve prototype. It is synthetic content created for a university project and is not the policy of any real airline.

2. Delayed Baggage

Baggage is considered delayed when it does not arrive on the same flight as the passenger. Once a delayed status is confirmed in the tracing system, a baggage claim is opened automatically. Most delayed bags are located and delivered within 24 to 48 hours. Recovered baggage is delivered free of charge to the address given by the passenger.

3. Lost Baggage and Investigations

When baggage cannot be located by the tracing system, its status becomes Not Found and a lost baggage investigation is opened. The airline searches for the baggage for 21 days. If the baggage has not been found after 21 days it is declared lost and compensation can be requested. Investigations are handled by the Central Tracing team.

4. Filing a Baggage Claim

To file a claim the passenger must provide the passenger name, booking reference, flight number, flight date, baggage tag number and a contact email address. Delayed or missing baggage must be reported as soon as possible and no later than 21 days after the flight arrival date. Only one active claim can exist for each baggage tag.

5. Interim Expenses

While baggage is delayed, passengers may buy reasonable essential items such as toiletries and basic clothing. These expenses are reimbursed up to USD 75 per day for a maximum of 5 days. Original receipts must be submitted with the claim.

6. Compensation Limits

Compensation for baggage declared lost is limited to USD 1,500 per passenger and is subject to proof of the value of the contents. Compensation is paid within 30 days after the claim is approved.

7. Baggage Status Definitions

Delivered means the baggage was handed to the passenger. Delayed means it did not travel with the passenger and is being forwarded. In Transit means it is moving between airports. At Airport means it has been located and is waiting for collection or delivery. Not Found means the tracing system has no current location. Under Investigation means the Central Tracing team is actively searching.

8. Baggage That Was Already Delivered

No claim is created for baggage whose status is Delivered. If a passenger believes the delivered baggage is damaged or items are missing, the passenger must report this at the airport baggage service office or contact customer support with photographs.

9. Follow-up and Communication

Passengers with an open claim receive an email confirmation with the claim number. Status updates are sent at least every 48 hours until the claim is closed. Baggage that is In Transit or At Airport is monitored and the passenger is informed of progress without opening a claim.

10. Escalation and Manual Review

If the baggage tag cannot be matched to any record, the case is escalated to a human agent for manual review. A human agent contacts the passenger within one business day.
